MATERNAL HEALTH

To address the horrifying number of 56,000 women who die during childbirth every year in India, Janani Suraksha Yojana(JSY) is an Indian Government Scheme that was implemented in 2005, aimed at decreasing neo-natal and maternal deaths happening in the country. VV, however, begged the question, “Are women in the remotest villages of India getting the benefits?” to which VV Correspondent Reena Ramteke and VV Correspondent Mary Nisha video documented rejoinders.

Reena’s story , One Village. Three Women. A State Run Facility that never Opens brilliantly reveals the bitter truth of failure of policy implementation of schemes like the JSY in Khatti village, Chhattisgarh. An unfunctional health facility has resulted in one woman losing her 6 day old baby, another delivering a stillborn baby and a third who is 9 months pregnant with no access to healthcare.

In Mary Nisha’s One Woman’s Harrowing Experience of Giving Birth. she video documents the appalling conditions of state-run health facilities in Godda, Jharkhand. It is a tragic story of a heavily pregnant tribal woman who had to wait for 6 hours to get any medical attention from a doctor at the hospital. Further, she had to incur out of pocket expenses of INR 400 for her delivery, whereas free medical treatment is hers by right under JSY. The doctor on duty never did show up and eventually her delivery was conducted by a nurse.

ODISHA BATTLES FORCED EVICTIONS

Our Community Correspondents from Odisha, are currently covering the darkest period for the indigenous people in Indian history and our production 'Save Niyamgiri: Voices from Ground Zero' attempted to consolidate and magnify the intensifying protests by the Dongria Kondh tribals against the the UK-based company, Vedanta's, plan to set up mining projects in this ecologically and culturally sensitive area.

In Drowned by Development, Satyanarayan Banchor, reported about the protests by the villagers of Buda Bahal Village of Bolangir district, Odisha who have been desperately protesting against the upcoming Lower Suktel Dam which will spell doom for their communities that are primarily dependent on agriculture and forest produce for their livelihoods.

'We will give our blood, but will not leave Niyamgiri. It is our God, our home and gives us everything we need,' says a resident because in places like Niyamgiri Hill and Lower Suktel, development means the end of a way of life.

MINOR RAPED ON WAY TO SCHOOL

On February 6, 2014, Sapna a 14 year old tribal girl from Hazaribaug, Jharkhand, left home at 9:30am for school, as she did every day. What should have been a typical day for this little child turned into her worst nightmare. She was accosted and then raped for three days. The perpetrator of this vile act would have escaped punishment if it was not for the report of VV Correspondent , Chunnu Hansda, who reported about the event and the protests of the angry villagers, which resulted in the incarceration of Sapna's rapist.

DALIT RIGHTS ACTIVIST BURNED ALIVE

Sanjay Khobragade was a Dalit rights activist from Kavalewada, Maharashtra. Six 'upper class' men broke into his house in the middle of the night, doused him in petrol and set him on fire because of a land disagreement. Before dying, he identified his killers but due to gross injustice, his wife and neighbor were not only accused but put in jail and left there for over four months. In jail, both were physically and emotionally tortured to say that they themselves killed Sanjay. VV Correspondent Alka Mate brought this story to the attention of VV. Human Rights Law Network and VV have teamed together to seek justice for Sanjay Khobragade.

EXPERIMENTS WITH TECHNOLOGY

VV launched 3 new projects in its endeavour to make technology and information sharing accessible to the most marginalized, remote and invisibilized communities:

In one of our most innovative initiatives, we trained our CCs on SMS Reporting. Correspondents from Chhattisgarh, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh and Jharkhand were encouraged to report about issues of modern day slavery from their cell phones as a part of a collaboration with a British media organization Radar which works to curb human trafficking.

Over the year, we have distributed 40 Micromax Tablets to our CCs in Odisha, Bihar, Maharashtra, Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh. Over two-day trainings, Correspondents were taught how to use these devices effectively to screen their videos to government officials for impact-work and to small audiences. Owing to the portable and convenient nature of these devices, we've seen that the number of screenings has increased dramatically.

To facilitate effective mentoring and knowledge sharing even to the most inaccessible areas of India, we started sending voice messages to CCs with updates from the VV network as well as training tips. We are using another system to track audience feedback and interactions from the Doordarshan show.

SPECIAL PROJECTS

Community Screenings about Human Trafficking with MTV Exit

More than 100,000 people attended 76 Community screenings we conducted in the state of Bihar of MTV Exit's film 'Bazar', on human trafficking. 12 Community Correspondents participated in leading the screenings in their districts. Audience members reported that human trafficking indeed was happening all around their villages, but that before these screenings they had never recognized it as such.

Tackling the caste issue in Mumbai's Sewerage Work, with Sir Dorabji Tata Trust

Mumbai's vast sewerage system is cleaned almost entirely by members of the Dalit community who work in inhuman conditions resulting in very high numbers of deaths because of toxic fumes and lack of safety equipments. VV created a campaign and communications strategy to end manual scavenging in Mumbai, as part of the Trust's 'Mission Garima' which aims to improve the condition of sanitation workers. We organized meetings with key stakeholders including scavengers themselves and NGOs and CSOs working on Dalit rights

SPECIAL PROJECTS

Video Advocacy training for homeless men and women in New York

Working with the Jericho Project, a leading NGO combatting homelessness in New York, VV trained former homeless people including Iraq war veterans to produce videos. The purpose of the videos was to use it for advocating at the state capitol for more funds to be allocated to fight homelessness in NY, and to set up an Advocates program in the NGO.

Speaker Series on human rights issues in India

VV's director Stalin K. conducted a weekly speaker series on Indian human rights issues for a group of New Yorkers, that included screening documentary films, VV videos and reading works on human rights issues.

TOP IMPACTS

60,000 Kashmiris now lead a safer life

A firing range, Tosmaidan, in Budgaum, Kashmir was leased out to the Artillery division of the Indian Army to conduct regular drills from May to October, every year. The firing has been ongoing since 1964. The place leased out to Army, however, has also been a pasture for grazing for thousands of animals for centuries used by hundreds of local shepherds. Due to regular shelling and firing - official records suggest that 110 people were killed and 700 maimed.

Sajad's video report from 2012 revived the Toasmaidan Bachav Campaign by locals, which had failed a number of times earlier due to heavy military presence in the area. With J&K RTI Movement's cooperation, pressure was built up and finally they were successful in pressurizing the J&K Government to cancel the lease agreement.

TOP IMPACTS

1000 toilets for the villagers of Movaiya

Shabnam Begum reported on 13-year-old Nirama who lives in Movaiya village, Varanasi district, Uttar Pradesh where 500 people have no access to basic sanitation facilities. For Nirama, having to relieve herself in the open is an added challenge as she is visually impaired. She is afraid of being teased and more seriously, of being sexually or physically harmed. Shabnam's video was broadcast on Citizen Journalist on CNN IBN and one of the viewers contacted her.

Expressing solidarity with her cause, he very generously helped to build 1000 toilets for Shabnam's village, enabling her community to regain a dignified life.

TOP IMPACTS

New Teachers appointed where none took classes

Two teachers refused to report on duty in the Upper Middle School in Kulbhanga, Jharkhand for two years. In september 2014, Shikha Paharin made a video on this issue and screened it for the Deputy Commissioner of Sahebganj district .

Echoing the community's growing demand to appoint new teachers, Shikha visited the deputy commissioner again in November 2014. After this, a new Headmaster and a new Assistant Teacher were appointed on 14th February 2015 at the Utkramik Middle School in Kulbhanga Pahad village of Mandru block. Since 16th of February 2015, they have been teaching children regularly.

Both Kuldeep Yadav and Shankar Das, who never visited school except for Republic Day, have been suspended.

TOP IMPACTS

16 year old rescued from trafficking

Behulia Paharin of Boriya village in Sahebganj District went missing in May 2014. She was taken to Gurgaon and made to do household work along with 3 more kids. Correspondent Shikha made a video about the issue and showed it to the Police officers at Boriyo but no action was taken. Shikha managed to file a missing persons complaint but the inaction, negligence and allegations from the authorities kept intensifying. Shikha then submitted a written application to the Superintendent of Police, Sahebganj. After 19 days of filing this application with the SP, on 19th August 2014, Behulia was returned to her home town by the same people who took her. She was paid no money for the work she was made to do for 3 months and confirmed presence of many other girls who were trafficked and kept in the same place.

Behulia's story changed and for good. But that may not be the case for the rest of women trapped in this ring. The best way to tackle this is immediate action. The sooner the action is taken, higher the chances of safe retrieval.

CAMPAIGNS & ADVOCACY

MATERNAL HEALTH CAMPAIGN

VV launched a campaign monitoring maternal health facilities along with Oxfam in which 41 video reports were produced.

56,000 women die a year in India in childbirth - yet none of them are stories; no officials are accountable for their deaths. We're trying to change that by giving them a voice — and a way to 'move' local officials to action. Here are a few examples. This video is about the impact of a closed health clinic on three village women, two of whom lost their babies because of it. This video captures the undignified way women are treated when they deliver at state hospitals.

PASS YA FAIL - RIGHT TO EDUCATION

Our RTE Campaign which aims to monitor the implementation of the Right to Education Act on the ground has produced approximately 110 audit videos bringing our total to 153 RTE audit videos systematically reporting on violations of RTE provisions in their communities

CAMPAIGN AGAINST FORCED EVICTIONS

For our Forced Evictions Campaign we produced more than 89 videos on forced displacement, bringing the total to 200. Working with leading social movements such as Narmada Bachao Andolan, Khandadhar Surakshya Mahila Mahasangh, Sundargarh, Odisha, Malkangiri Zilla Adivasi Mahasangha, Malkangiri, Odisha on the ground this campaign primarily fights against development induced displacement and aims for an end to all forced evictions and for the full of implementation of Panchayat Extension to Scheduled Areas act.

A large number of these videos showcase how communities are forced by the State to leave their land even if they do not wish to do so. This coercion may take the form of withholding of basic services like access to education, healthcare or food security schemes.

ARTICLE 17, CAMPAIGN AGAINST UNTOUCHABILITY

In our ongoing campaign, VV along with its partner Human Rights Law Network has filed a Public Interest Litigation in the Supreme Court of India asking the government to take stringent measures to implement Article 17 of the Indian Constitution.

Our meticulous video documentation has acted as wake up call to a nation which believes that Untouchability is history.
